

Our Mission

Our Living Life In Peace Project is being created to show students and parents that we need to help each other combat bullying. We believe that sometimes all you need is one person to stand beside you to help you know that you matter.

The Living Life In
Peace Project
An Anti-Bullying Campaign
Created By Kids For Kids

Our Project's Purpose

The Living Life In Peace Project is a campus awareness campaign that is being designed and led by the sixth grade students of Constance Hulbert's 21st Century After School Program. Following a series of surveys and observations, the students decided that Bullying in any form can be harmful not only to the individuals experiencing the torment, but to all of those around them. Incidents of bullying often go unreported because of fear of retaliation, a sense of embarrassment, or simply the idea that no one is there to listen.

All students have a voice; it is time that we let them use it.

Leaving Behind A Legacy

Not Just a Passing Phase...

The boys and girls of our program are taking an active stance to combat bullying. Sixth grade students are serving as mentors for their younger peers in order to gain a full perspective on the issues that affect them. Our sixth graders helped the younger students develop a method to communicate that bullying is not only cruel, but also should never be justified. In addition to providing a listening ear, the sixth graders are spreading the message to parents that they can be there for one another.

Lessons Learned...

Victims of Bullying can be both reactive and passive. People need to know that although someone can say that they are fine, inside they can feel hurt beyond repair.

Instances of Bullying can never be justified by stating, "It's over jealousy or envy;" Pain and humiliation are not easy to get over if others claim that this type of treatment is "something we all go through." It is hard to undue what has already been done, however, being there to listen and ask questions can help to change a life.
